Dear Parents/Caregivers,

We often use the saying “having blind faith”. Perhaps it is about having faith that things will turn out right and that the decisions made today will determine the future we desire. In our educational context, it is all about trust. Trusting in right relationships, in making positive choices for the best outcomes for the students; these are cornerstones for education professionals and something that the parent community entrusts us to get right. At times parents may feel challenged that this trust sits on rocky ground. At times it might just be about different perspectives or the reality can be that we have simply got it wrong. We in turn, trust that concerns and joys will be brought to us so they are dealt with, or celebrated in the right spirit so that we can all see much clearer and work in a community where the faith of everyone creates and nurtures a sense of community wellness.

The reality for schooling in 2011 is that we do not just rely on ‘blind faith’. There have always been checks and accountabilities but today, the delivery of contemporary education is very much tied to government funding and along with that a whole new set of transparencies and compliance requirements that must be reported upon on an annual basis. The re-launch of the ACARA My School website this Friday is all about openness. There are new features in 2011, with: ‘an easy to use summary page with key facts and figures; financial information for each school; [and] information on how schools are performing, over time’.

With the initial launch of NAPLAN results and ICSEA scores early last year, there was much confusion in the community about what everything meant, particularly with the Index of Community Socio-Educational Advantage (ICSEA) score, which is a scale that represents how this score ie: socio-economic advantage or disadvantage of families affects the level of educational advantage or disadvantage of the individual child. According to information provided by ACARA, the authority has attempted to create clearer opportunities for families to make fairer comparisons between like schools (and of school populations with similar ICSEA scores). We welcome questions, inquiries about interventions, or parents seeking clarification or help with interpretation of information and data.

“Teacher”, the blind man answered, “I want to see again.” “Go,” Jesus told him, your faith has made you well.”

Investment Advice

A group of men were standing around at a party. One was describing the share portfolio he and his wife had built up. The others offered various comments. The last bloke to speak, the father of a large family of children, said, “My wife and I haven’t any shares. We’ve invested in a family.”

Jesus said that where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.

In our parish we’ve been reflecting on how we are Stewards of the Time, Talents and Treasure with which God has blessed us as gifts.

Money can be a sensitive issue for people – just look at the ruckus when the Prime Minister said we need a Levy to help pay for the repairs to Queensland after the floods.

Money can also open an intensely spiritual dimension of our lives, as we share what we have with the less fortunate. This gives expression to our authentic freedom as the children of God.

Sharing our time, talents and treasure could be thought of as a long-term investment, or a type of “futures trading”. When we train ourselves and our children to trust in the grace of God, and not in some material commodity like money, we may hope for the dividend of a secure future. A future in heaven, with our family members, and with Jesus, the Son of God, united with our family and all those we love.

LITURGICAL SEASONS OF THE CHURCH

This week marks the beginning of Autumn. We have passed relatively unscathed from Summer into a new phase of the seasonal calendar.

Just as our world has special times and seasons, so does the Church. In our liturgical seasons we remember important parts of the Christian story and wait for the time when Christ will come again.

The Church enter a new season next week with the arrival of Lent on Ash Wednesday which falls on March 9 this year. During Lent the liturgical colour is purple. Lent is a time of reflection on how our lives are going and what we need to do to come back to God in readiness for the resurrection of Jesus at Easter.

Following the season of Lent is the Season of Easter which this year is celebrated from April 23 to June 12. The liturgical colour of the Church at this time is white or gold and the focus is the celebration of the risen Christ in our lives.

The season that follows Easter is called Ordinary Time which extends from June 13 to November 26.

The end of the calendar year brings the season of Advent from November 28 to December 24 and the liturgical colour is violet. Just think of the jacaranda trees in Whyalla at this time of the year to visualise this colour.

Christmas is then celebrated from December 25 to January 9th and white is the colour for this season.

Between Advent from one year to Lent in the next is a second period of Ordinary time.

This completes the Liturgical Calendar of the church. At Mass the vestments of the priest will reflect the colour of the Church season we are in. In classrooms, the prayer cloth will also reflect the church season to heighten our awareness of what is going on in the church.

So just as there are 4 seasons in nature, there are many seasons in the life of the church.

Continuing on with the theme of seasons, we were alerted in the Parish Newsletter to the celebration of Autumn Ember Day. This is a special day of prayer that the Australian Church will observe on the first Friday of Autumn and Spring as special days of prayer and penance.

A PRAYER FOR EMBER DAY

Dear God, there has been much tragedy in Australia and New Zealand and we hear of great unrest in Libya. Help the leaders of these countries and the international community to bring relief and order to the people effected by these events. We pray that those who have died in are safe in your loving care and their families receive love and support from their neighbours.

Amen

EDUCATION TAX REFUND 2010/2011 (amended)

As part of the 2008/2009 Federal Budget, it was announced that from the July 1, 2008, eligible families would be able to claim a 50% Education Tax refund on eligible education expenses. For the 2010/2011 year the figures have been increased to $794 for a primary child and $1588 for a secondary child

The portion of eligible education expenses that families may claim for the 2010/2011 income tax year is up to $397 per annum for each child in primary school and up to $794 per annum for each child in secondary school.

The major portion of the eligible expenses relates to the cost of home computers and computer related equipment as well as home internet connections and computer software for educational use.

The eligible education expense that is a part of your school fees includes “school text books and other paper based school learning material, including prescribed textbooks, associated learning materials, study guides and stationery.”

As Samaritan College issues an all inclusive account for school fees an estimate has been made that the amount of $156 per primary student and $230 per secondary student relates to the eligible education expenses component of those school fees.

If you are to make an ETR claim you will need to retain proof of payment of your fees (ie: school receipt) and consult with your tax professional to determine your eligibility.

Please note that school uniform expenses do not become claimable until the 2011/2012 financial year and are subject to legislation.

Further information on the Education Tax Refund can be obtained from the following link [http://www.educationtaxrefund.gov.au][1]

Parenting Ideas
by Michael Grose:
Enjoy being a parent

Bringing up children is hard work. Here’s how to enjoy the journey.

Raising kids is supposed to enrich our lives, yet parents are frequently outscored by singles and childless couples on many well-being and happiness scales. Perhaps it’s a case of the rewards of parenting being long-term, rather than in the present.

Those bundles of joy that you bring into the world come with some significant challenges as well. Genetic lottery plays a part. Some kids are easier to like and get along with than others. Most kids will push their parents’ buttons to some degree. However, some kids delight in annoying their parents more than others.

Most parents have terrific long-term goals for kids, such as making a contribution to the community and being successful in future work and relationships. We also want our kids to like us when they grow up.

But we want peace at home, which means we want our kids to get on with each other more and argue less. We also want our kids to do as we say the first time and to help around the house without accompanying sulks or tantrums that so often greet a reasonable request. This type of cooperation makes parenting enjoyable rather than just tolerable.

Here are some tips for achieving harmony and enjoying your role as a parent:

1. Improve your parenting skills
Getting cooperation from kids isn’t as hard as most parents think. Firmness, good communication techniques and a determination not to be a martyr are the keys. Consider attending a parenting course, reading some books or working alongside a trusted friend to improve your child-management skills.

2. Check your expectations
Most parents are focused on raising happy kids and will do so at the expense of themselves. I support this view in the short-term, but putting kids first at your own expense is not a great long-term strategy for raising kids.

If you want your kids to be happy and to thrive then you come first. You need to get some joy, if for no other reason than that your state of mind rubs off on your kids.

3. Maintain your own interests
Most parents will agree that time away from kids helps them enjoy being with their kids. However, parents are hardwired to put kid’s interests before their own. There’s nothing wrong with that, but we do need to maintain some interests or hobbies of our own.

It’s amazing how you can put up with more mundane parenting moments when you have something to look forward to!

4. Build regular down-time into family life
When I ask parents how they are faring, I usually get one response. “I’m busy.” It seems we try to fit so much into our days that there isn’t a lot of fun to be had in parenting. Fun, rest, relaxation and flow have been squeezed out of our lives in the pursuit of more. When you strip fun and enjoyment from any activity then anxiety always increases.

Don’t be a family that’s always on the go. Make sure you have some down-time so family members can relax and have the chance to connect. And don’t be afraid that your kids may become bored. Boredom gives kids opportunities to keep themselves occupied.

5. Have some fun with your kids
One way to increase parental enjoyment is to inject a little fun and levity into your parenting. If that means more time playing with your kids, just for fun, then so be it. Spend time doing more of what you enjoy with your kids and parenting satisfaction levels will improve.

Okay, so the house may end up messier than you’d like, and the garden unkempt but you may just end up with a smile on your face, and happier kids as well.

Dear Parents and Caregivers

Changes regarding the format and distribution of the Southern Cross newspaper

Catholic Communications and the Catholic Education Office is looking at ways of maximizing electronic forms of communication within the Archdiocese including integrating the digital version of the Southern Cross newspaper into our schools.

As mentioned in the February edition of the Southern Cross, there will no longer be hard copies of the newspaper made available to schools.

The Southern Cross can be accessed via the electronic link to the Southern Cross newspaper which is www.thesoutherncross.org.au.

Should you not have access to the internet please purchase a copy for $2 from your nearest Mass centre (Annual subscription $30 per year for one monthly copy or $58 for two years). Other options would be to electronically access the Southern Cross through your local community or school library.

If you have any queries please contact the Catholic Communications Office on 8210 8117 or by email cathcomm@adelaide.catholic.org.au

Please note: a link has been placed on the newsletter tab of our College website for ease of access to the Southern Cross newspaper.

STUDENT LEADERSHIP

Congratulations to the students who have been elected by their peers as House Captains and to the Student Representative Council for 2011. These students will be presented to the Primary Campus Communities and receive their badge in recognition of this achievement at the Ash Wednesday Liturgies to be held on each Campus on Wednesday, March 9 at 9:30am (STC) and 12:30pm (OLHCC).

SRC REPRESENTATIVE COUNCIL

Congratulations to Cadell Herbert, Joseph Dawson, Alice Morgan and Paris Scatena of 4/5 Scharber/Owens who have been elected by their peers to the Student Representative Council for 2011.

CLEAN UP AUSTRALIA DAY

Tomorrow the Primary students will be participating in Clean Up Australia Day for Schools. We will be cleaning up the school property and the outside boundary of both Primary Campuses. Students are encouraged to bring gloves so that rubbish can be handled safely.

The Clean Up will take place during the school day unless the forecast temperature is 35 degrees, in which case it will take place at 9 am.

FOYER DISPLAY

We have a fantastic Foyer Display presented by Year 4/5 Scharber/Owens. Come along and read what the students have written.

CAMPUS ASSEMBLIES

The Week 5 Assemblies will be lead by the following classes on Friday, March 11:

STC - Year 4/5 Scharber/Owens at 9:30am under the Shelter Shed
OLHCC - Year 6/7 Lancaster at 12:30pm in the Vessey Unit.

CAMPUS LITURGIES

STC - Year 2/3 Reed/Judd will be leading next week’s Liturgy of the Word – Ash Wednesday. You are most welcome to attend on Wednesday, March 9 at 9:30am in the shelter shed.

OLHCC - Year 4/5 Tullio will be leading next week’s Liturgy of the Word – Ash Wednesday. You are most welcome to attend on Wednesday, March 9 at 12:30pm in the Church.

TOYS

We ask that children don’t bring toys or cards to school to be played with during play time as they can be broken or used inappropriately. If a toy is brought in for ‘Show and Tell’ purposes it will need to remain in the classroom during play time and taken home at the end of the day.

DONATIONS

R/1 Boundy and Sanders/Davies are introducing a play program to encourage social skills and imagination building. We are looking for any donations of good quality toys, Lego, dress ups or any household items suitable for imaginative play. eg: old phones, plastic kitchen utensils, sheets etc.

Thank you

Amy Boundy

LAP VOLUNTEERS

The Learning Assistance Program known as LAP is once again looking for LAP volunteers. LAP is a social interaction program that supports students in their journey of learning.

The skills that you need to be a LAP volunteer are patience, a listening ear and one hour per week. However, like all volunteers in schools you will need to have a current police check. (These are free for school volunteers.) Both primary campuses run this program. If you are interested in being a LAP volunteer please contact the College.

SECONDARY CAMPUS NEWS

YEAR 8S
Our Year 8s have safely returned from their camp at Trinity Haven near Tumby Bay. A wonderful setting for such an important team building experience. Thank you to Mr Keating and the Year 8 teaching staff and support staff for their involvement with this important event. Feedback from parents has been extremely positive.

START OF DAY
A reminder that our school day at the secondary campus starts at 8.35am with caregroup starting prayer at 8.40am. Students arriving after this time, into their actual classroom, are marked as late. There are a disturbing number of students still walking up the pathway or being dropped off after the first bell. Continual lateness will result in an out of hours consequence.

FACEBOOK
We received a range of positive responses to the information on Facebook in last week’s newsletters. This is certainly not the first time we have mentioned Facebook in the newsletter and it won’t be the last. What has also been good is the feedback and questions from students after they have listened to me at each of the special assemblies we have had regarding online etiquette. It shows that some students are, at least, thinking first before they post or reply or ‘like’ anything online. What I didn’t mention last week, amongst all the technical and legal information, was that we openly encourage and teach students to behave in a way that reflects the College Vision of Faith, Wisdom and Compassion. All 3 of these values are in turn connected to Gospel stories. These values permeate all that we do at the College and in many cases, when students act in a Christian way and we promote the ideals of the Gospel, these negative issues that can arise from Facebook are significantly reduced.

WORK EXPERIENCE
Year 10 students are currently arranging work experience placements. Students wishing to trial Onesteel and nursing at the Hospital need to give their name to their caregroup teacher. Students also complete a range of basic OHSW awareness training before going to ‘work’. Some of what they do can be found here: http://www.safework.sa.gov.au/youth/ and is worth discussing with your child.

CLEAN UP AUSTRALIA DAY
For this campus this is tomorrow. Students are allocated areas in and around the campus and its neighbourhood. Gloves, bags and tongs are provided.

Damien Judd
DEPUTY PRINCIPAL

STAGE 1 AND 2 SUBJECTS
All Stage 1 and 2 students have now been entered into DATEX, the enrolment system used by the SACE Board to generate SACE results and certificates. It is, therefore, imperative that students wishing to change subjects complete the yellow Subject Selection Change Form and return it to Mr Lyons so this system can be updated – without this information I cannot update DATEX and the SACE Board will assume students are in their original subjects.

Students wishing to change subjects are also advised that they have until the end of next week (Friday, March 11) to return their Subject Selection Change Form. After this date students are not guaranteed to be able to move classes (although Stage 1 students can generally move classes at the end of the semester). The reason for this cut-off date is simple – students moving after this time will find it very difficult to catch up on work missed in their new subject (as well as trying to understand what’s being taught in class having missed 5 weeks background information). This can make it difficult for students to pass the subject and, as a result, can jeopardise their SACE (especially if students are moving English or Maths classes at Stage 1). In addition, Stage 2 students who move into Community Studies need to be aware that doing so means they cannot receive an ATAR (necessary for university entrance).

Students (and parents/caregivers) wishing to discuss this matter further are encouraged to see me at Saint John’s Campus in the next few days.

MATHS HELP

Maths Help has commenced and will take place every Tuesday in the Library from 3:45pm to 4:30pm. This is an opportunity for all students, junior (Years 8-10) and senior (Years 11-12), to get assistance with homework and assignments, and to revise for upcoming tests and exams knowing that there is a teacher available to help. This is also a good way of catching up on work missed due to absence and the Internet facilities of the Library can be used to complete set Mathsonline.
